PARENT INVOLVEMENT ACTIVITY

There are so many opportunities for children to be involved with their parents during the holiday season. Parents are shopping for gifts and baking goodies for their friends and family. Here are a couple of ideas I suggested to parents for creating teachable moments while spending time together during this christmas like By cooking with your child, she/he can apply and learn math skills and follow directions. Children love to look through the flyers to find what they would like for Christmas. Instead of throwing them away, put these flyers to use by having your child create word problems with the flyers. parents can support their children's literacy and emotional growth through the gift of reading. Selecting books as gifts and enjoying them together is a wonderful place to start.
