PARENT INVOLVEMENT ACTIVITY

Being one of the most popular and loved festivals of South India, Pongal, welcomes the harvest season and is specially marked by its distinct traditional rituals and exuberant celebrations. Families come together to honour and celebrate the auspicious new beginning in their lives! When it comes to traditional festivals, there is a lot you can teach your kids as these present an awesome learning opportunity to explore the ethnicity and origins as well as learn more about the rich Indian culture, traditions and rituals. During festival time, these places throng with people, stalls and sellers. You get to see a variety of colourful items being sold. So, take your children along when you go for shopping so that they get to experience the sights, sounds and smells of a bustling marketplace. Most children love it when you give them responsibilities; it makes them feel important and that they are being taken seriously, just like an adult. So, put them in charge of decorating a portion of the house or drawing the kolam outside the house. This will give them a sense of ownership. Be sure to appreciate their effort, once they are done!
